SYMPOSIUMS: REFLECTIONS ON TRAFFICKING OF THE INDIGENOUS PEOPLE

CONVENOR: DR. DEBLINA MAJUMDER

ABSTRACT

Globalisation has paved the way for increased migration. This has further resulted in escalation of human trafficking cases across the globe. Human Trafficking takes place with the ulterior motive of compelling the victims to be slaves, bonded labours, prostitutes, donate organs forcefully, etc. More often the indigenous people become vulnerable to such transnational threats. This round table session has been split into three sessions where the speakers will be addressing the issues of why indigenous people around the world are victims of human trafficking; which motive is the most rampant amongst slavery, bonded labour, domestic servitude, prostitution, and organ trafficking among various indigenous groups in the world; and lastly what is the role of various NGOs across the globe in extending support services and protection to the victims of human trafficking. The session will be participated by the students of KIIT School of Law, Bhubaneswar, India.
